I-10 RESURFACING PREPARATIONS—An operator utilizes a front-end loader to pile sifted gravel as a machine crushes gravel Tuesday at a site on Hwy. 603 just north of the I-10 interchange. Crusher operator Carlos Contell, standing on the machine, said his company, Rock Products, Inc. of Sylacanga, Ala., is sifting gravel for the primary layer and crushing gravel for the final course in an almost $2 million 1-10 resurfacing project scheduled to start soon in Hancock County. He said Butts and Billingsley Asphalt Paving of Childersburg, Ala. will. utilize 56,000-tons of the processed gravel and recycle the top one-inch layer of existing I-10 pavement to resurfacing the roadway. The new pavement will contain 65 percent of the recycled material, Connell added. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Hancock school board to reconsider office employee recommendations

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR. The Hancock County School Board Friday will again consider a recommendation to re-employ all but two school district office personnel.

Terrell Randolph, county superintendent of education, at a Monday board meeting recommended re-hiring all office personnel for one year except Harlin Hill, district programs coor-dinator, and Brenda Ladner, district bookkeeper,

But after Randolph and two board members haggled about the matter for several minutes the officials unanimously voted to table the matter until Friday.

The superintendent said the reason for not recommending re-hiring of the two employees was due to 'litigation going on' and suggested the board delay in approving the two.

But George Ladner, a board member, stated, "I think those people should have due process

Monvel Cuevas, board president, said the matter could be approved at the next meeting.
Brenda Ladner is Cuevas' sister:

Randolph argued state law states the board 'should' accept his recommendations and threatened to close the school district office in Bay St. Louis if the board did not concur with his request. Regarding plastic foam roofing material installed on portions of Gulfview Elementary and Hancock North Central High School, Randolph said the installer, MIRL, Inc. of Long Beach, wants to set a date to hispect ap parent defects which have caused

He reported MIRI officials are expecting a letter from the roofing material manufacturers, Dow-Corning, stating the company will pay for complete replacement.

When questioned about the roofing by Cuevas, Fred Wagner, a Bay St. Louis architect attending the meeting, said he would not recommend utilizing such

The board at a previous meeting agreed to provide $7,500 in matching funds, but Pat Patterson of the club posal did not include shower facilities.

In addition, the board authorized Wagner to discuss details of the project with Patterson.

The club representative said a steel building will be constructed.

Regarding the salaries of Randolph and HNC Principal Donald Hillman, James Pair, assistant superintendent. revealed the principal's January salary exceeded Randolph's and state school accreditation standards require the superintendent be the highest paid district employe

Randolph said his gross January salary including fringe benefits is $2,597 and Hillman's total pay for the same period is $2.645

Pair said the principal's salary exceeded Randolph's due to the district's $250 monthly rental for a house trailer for the Hillman family, The Hillman home at HNC, provided as a fringe benefit by the district, was destroyed in a recent fire.

Inmate files lawsuit against sheriff's dept. By BREARD SNELLINGS Dyazide, insulin, Cummadin, Tylenol The Hancock County Sheriff's Department is being sued by one of the nmates of the county jail.

James Conley, convicted the last term of circuit court for armed robbery of a Bay St. Louis woman, has filed suit in U.S. District Court, asking $500,000 in damages from Sheriff Ronald Peterson and the sheriff's department.

Conley, originally from Knoxville, Tenn., has been residing in the Hancock jail since he was apprehended in Knox-ville in September, 1982, and extradicted back to Bay St. Louis in Oc-

Conley's suit claims he was unable to receive necessary medication for his diabetes through the Hancock sheriff's office during most of his incarceration.

Sheriff Peterson informed the Hancock County Board of Supervisors of the pending legal action at the board's regular meeting Monday morning, and cured the services of board attorney

Walter Gex.
Questions of sanitary facilities being inadequate at the jail have also ariser over the past few months, and the January Hancock County Grand Jury recommended to the board, as have previous Grand Juries, that the possibility of a bond issue for building a new jail or enlarging the jail be looked

Jitney Jungle fighting bill

By BREARD SNELLINGS

Jitney Jungle in Bay St. Louis has been circulating leaflets this week urg-ing people to call their state representative immediately in regard to House Bill 907.

The bill, called the Motor Fuels Marketing Act, is sponsored by gasoline distributors in Mississippi, and calls for a minimum gasoline price in the state of Mississippi.

Jitney Jungle, which is considering installing gasoline pumps in their new Bay St. Louis store, is against the minimum price, since they would not be allowed to sell below that price at their service pumps.

J.P. Compretta, state representative from Hancock County, said House Bill 907 is on Thursday's agenda, "but has been so far down the list the last few days, it's unlikely we'll get to it by Thursday's deadline date for acting on current House hills " evening before the Senate adjourns for the day, it will die on the floor.

The Jitney Jungle leaflet reads in part "we think that competition should set gasoline prices - not laws which would make prices higher. It's just basic to the free enterprise system that if someone can sell at a lower price, he should be allowed to."

A special committee to investigate solutions to the problems at the Hancock County Jail has been appointed by Jim Evans, Bay St. Louis Rotary Club

Evans said, "The recent Hancock County Grand Jury report on jail condi-tions in our county should be of concern-to all residents."

The committee named by Evans were, Jan Brameyer, chairman: Charles Hoffman, John Mason, Fred Logan and Ken McKenna.

"We are apparently faced with serious conditions in our local jail, and are hoping the involvment of our club, as well as other civic groups will help our political leaders in some way to cure them," Evans added.

Hughes and Hughes of Jackson operated the well when it was shut in after a recent attempt to gain marketable production through a workover operation failed, she said.

The Waveland Field wildcat has changed operators four times since it was drilled July 21, 1978 by a company working for Saga Petroleum of Jackson, oil and gas board records in-

The well was originally completed and produced from the Paluxy Formation; Pennsoil of Sheveport, La. became the operators on Oct. 5, 1978; Tideway Oil Programs of Jackson began as operator on Nov. 30, 1978; Vega Oil and Gas Management, Inc. of Jackson took over operation on July 3, 1979; and Hughes began as operator on Sept. 1, 1981, the records show.

Hughes completed the workover in the Washita-Fredricksburg Formation, but the well failed to produce marketable natural gas, Lum said.

Regarding the other well named crosby Estate M-1 located on the Stennis International Airport access road and operated by Phillips Petroleum of Eldorado, Ark.; Lum reported Dual Drilling Co. of Wichita Falls, Tex. recently reworked and completed the well in the Paluxy Formation with perforations ranging from 12,114 to 12,118 feet below the Earth's surface.

The workover abandoned the well's original perforations in the Moor-ingsport Formation located between 13,343 and 13,348 feet by utilizing a cast iron bridge plug, she said.

There were really many doubts Saturday night as to whether the Krewe of Nereids would be able to parade Sunday because of the severe weather.

Looks like the ladies of Nereids had a special contact with the Man upstairs.
Saturday will be the day for parades in Diamondhead and Pearlington.

The Diamondhead land parade will begin at 1 p.m. at the Country Club and wind its way to the Yacht Club and then there will be a sea parade of boats.

Pearlington's parade sponored by the West Hancock Volunteer Fire Department will form on Hwy. 604 near the Charles B. Murphy School at 2 p.m. and travel down to US-90 and several other streets.

We hope many will attend these parades, as the participants spend a lot of time and money in prepara-

HELP FOR PEOPLE WITH PROBLEMS

While the duties of a congressman vary somewhat with the times, there is one role which has endured from the beginning: helping people solve problems with their government.

The framers of the United States Constitution set up three branches of government, the executive, judicial and legislative, to work separately and to act as checks and balances on each Part of the legislative branch is the House of Representatives and members of the body are elected each two years from individual districts bason population. The closely-spaced elections are designed to ensure that these Members of Congress stay close to the people.

Over the last 10 years, I have learned that the job of a congressman can take on many dimensions. There is a legislative side, of course, where Congress assembles to act on the President's legislative initiative or develops national priorities of its own.

But it seems to me that the basic role of a congressman remains intact: to cut red tape for people.

Because a congressional office has to provide a wide range of services, I have established offices within the district to help at the local level. These two office are located in Gulfport and Hat-

For example, a number of people have contacted my offices about social security reform and especially the report just filed by the National Commission on Social Security. The report is an example of a bipartisan proposal which provides a basis for considera-tion of changes in the system.

Yet, I have emphasized to the people contacting me that the report is not necessarily the vehicle which will become law. I am withholding my initital judgments on the report until a bill has been drafted in the House.

Social security is only one of the dozens of problems confronted every day by the full time staff in my three offices. If you feel that these offices may be belpful to you, please contact me.

SMALL BUSINESS

IN WORLD MARKET
Mention the word "Export" to most small-business people and you will pro-bably get a blank stare or worse. Most in business for themselves focus on markets closer to home. Few even venture outside their own state. But foreign trade — exporting of U.S. goods to other countries -- is not just for big'

A husband-wife team in the Midwest found a new way to clean factories and turned their idea into a successful business in less than two year. Now, there is a good chance they will be exporting that idea to the Far East. A man who made irrigation equipment for U.S. farmers now counts among his top customers some middle eastern, sheiks!

There may be hundreds of success stories such as these, but there could be thousands more. Now, Congress has passed and President Reagan has signed into law the Export Trading Company Act. Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldridge, whose department (along with the Federal Reserve Board) will oversee the implementation of the Act, says the new law gives small- and medium-sized companies the opportunity to compete in world markets on an equal footing with

At a recent meeting in Spain of smallbusiness leaders from 62 countries, the talk was of how to expand smallbusiness markets through increased exporting. Few American accents, however, were noticeable in those discussions. During the relatively short history of the U.S., it has not been necessary or feasible for most smallbusiness owners to become involved in foreign trade.

But if we are to continue to expand our economic base, we must increase our share of world markets, and small business is the key. The Export Trading Company Act is a step toward the goal.

tough but lucrative world markets. The Commerce Department says that as export-trading companies grow, so will U.S. exports. It is estimated that over the next three years, U.S. exports will increase 5 percent or $11 billion. A share of those dollars is available for the taking by small entrepreneurs ready to plunge into exporting

The Commerce Department is ready to assist small-business owners through its International Trade Administration. The ITA has a clearing house for U.S. suppliers and export-trading companies and will help interested ousinesses contact export-trading com-

In addition, starting in January 1983, Commerce will sponsor a series of export-trading-company conferences in major U.S. cities. District offices of the department have details.

Small-business people in other coun-tries have been enjoying the challenges and rewards of exporting for years. Export-trading companies now make it easier for small businesses in the United States. But the real barrier is still psychological. Small-business peo-ple can export successfully if they find a product or service unique to a foreign market. The entrepreneurial instinct is the essential ingredient.

CODE OF ETHICS

A code of ethics, covering a range of business and government activities, has been adopted by the Mississippi Economic Council and is suggested for adoption by Mississippi businesses and governmental agencies.

Meeting in Jackson, the Council's Board of Directors adopted the proposed code of ethics which was developed hy the MED's Ethics Committee, chaired by G.B. Beard.

"Mississippians understand ethics as accepted moral principles and values and recognize ethical behavior as beneficial to the individual and to socie ty," the code's preamble said. It added, 'We further recognize that if we are to preserve our free society and our selfgovernment, we must preserve the ethical order of that society."

Bob Pittman, MEC president, said businesses and government officials are urged to consider the code. Copies of the code will be provided to members of the Mississippi Legislature and state agencies. In addition, the code will be made available to state and local business organizations. "This code can serve as a guideline for business and government conduct." Pittman said. The code of ethics contains a 13-point pledge. It is as follows: "In support of our free society, our self-government, and our heritage of

CONSUMER REPORT

SHOULD KNOW ABOUT WARRANTIES

Attorney General Bill Allain says it is always to the consumers' advantage to compare written warranties when shopping for all types of goods and ser-

Allain states that it has become much easier for consumers to do this because of a federal regulation adopted in

The regulation states that products costing more than $15 shall have their warranties available for inspection prior to their sale. Also all products that cost more than $10 must have their warranties labeled as either "full" or

Under the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, a defective product manufactured after July 4, 1975 with a warranty labeled "full" must be fixed within a reasonable amount of time and without charge to the customer for parts and labor. Furthermore, the law states that the warrantor cannot impose any unreasonable conditions on a consumer for getting something fixed under war-ranty unless the condition is approved by the Federal Trade Commission, For example, it is considered unreasonable for a consumer to be required to pay shipment of a piano or similar bulky object to the factory for repairs.

The merchant can, however, require that the customer notify the warrantor in the case of a defect before starting plans to sue. Finally, the customer must be offered a refund or replacement if a reasonable number of at-tempts to repair the product falls. (It has not been decided yet what should be considered "reasonable".) #

If you have a complaint, contact the store manager first. If he complaint is not settled at that level, write to the manufacturer,

All warranties that offer anything less than the above stated requirement must be designated as 'limited''. For example, if you bought a product with a warranty that covered parts; but not labor, the warranty would be labeled 'limited''. And should the product ever need servicing, you would be responsi-ble for all labor costs.

In some instances, this could be quite expensive. Therefore, you should always check the terms of a "limited" warranty before you buy. But remember, it is usually best to buy a product with a full warranty whenever

In America it's the violent crimes h seem to get the headlines. But as one Mississippi official recently said, violent crimes such as murder, rape, and kidnapping don't come close to equaling the number of deaths caused each year by the most violent killer the drunk driver.

This year the Mississippi Legislature is making an effort to strengthen the state's drunk driver laws. Under con-sideration are proposals which would stiffen the state's penalties for driving while under the influence of alcohol, and which would make it harder for a Law-abining people have for too long been the innocent victims of the drunk driven. It's time to make the roads safer, for the driving public. And removal of the drunk driver from our highways and roads is affirstee.

The Misaissippi Degislature should stand firm on its proposal to strengthen the state's drunk driving statutes. The Mississippi Economic Council supports these very important measures to reduce the emotional suffering and financial losses experienced by those who have been victimized by the drunk

FARMING FOR PROFIT

A meeting designed to help financially-pressed farmers improve chances for profit in 3 will be held on Feb. 24 at Jones Junior College, Ellisville.

The meeting, called "Farming For Profit, '83" will begin at 9:15 a.m. and end at 3:15 p.m., according to John W. Smith, County Agent in Hancock County.

The meeting is one of nine to be held in Mississippi in February at various locations across the state. The meetings will be conducted by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. A registration fee of $5 will be charged.

"The meeting is designed to help farmers improve their profit situation in 1983," Smith said. "We believe the meeting will be a positive step in reaching this goal." "Net farm income in Hancock County and the state remains depressed." Smith added. "Farm income in the last three years has been extremely low and prospects for 1983 are not much brighter. The depressed farm income levels have placed many of our farmers in a severe financial situation.'

Emphasis at the meeting will be placed on ways farmers can reduce production costs, increase yields and develop profitable marketing alternatives, Smith said.

"By emphasizing these areas, we hope to help our farmers lower per unit costs and more toward a more profitable farming position in 1983," Smith said.

In-depth production and marketing information relating to important farm enterprises in Hancock County and across the state will be emphasized at the meeting.

Extension specialists in production, marketing and economics will give an analysis of each area as it relates to soybean, cotton, rice, beef, dairy and hogs.

"I urge all farmers and other interested individuals in our area to make plans to attend this important meeting," Smith said. "Since we need to get a count on the number that get a count on the number that, will be attending the meeting, please stop by the office and fill out a registration form or give us a call," Smith added. The bills Cochran is sponsoring modify federal habeas corpus procedures, the insanity defense, and the bail system. The habeas corpus modification eks to eliminate much of the abuse of the present system by a small number of prisoners and relieve much of the unnecessary burden now imposed on the federal court system,

"Our proposal would better ensure the finality of criminal convictions," Cochran commented, "but it would still protect legitimate reliance upon habeas corpus petitions."

rms in the insanity defense plea, to shift the burden of proof to those asserting such a defense, are similar to legislation approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee last year, with 40 co-sponsors, including Cochran dramatically illustrated by the notorious John Hinckley case," the senator commented.

Bail reform is aimed at permitting federal courts, for the first time, to consider the danger a defendant poses to the community in making pre-trial release decisions, limits postconviction release while appeals are pending, tightens procedures for dealing with persons committing crimes while on pre-trial release, and increases penalties for bail jumping. "Enactment of these bills would help federal officials enforce and administer the criminal laws and protect lawabiding citizens from dangerous in dividuals and habitual criminals," the

REPEAL TAX LAW

Cochrn is co-sponsoring legislation that would repeal a new tax law which has drawn criticism from Mississippi

Legislation co-sponsored by Cochran would repeal a section of the 1982 Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act which requires financial institutions to withhold 10 percent of income earned on interest and dividends.

"I'm afraid in the long run this law will prove to be unfair to savers as well enormously expensive to implement," Cochran said.

Cochran has signed a letter distributed to all the members of the Senate, urging them to support the effort to repeal the withholding provision.

The withholding provision was proposed as a way to insure that depositors pay taxes assessed on interest and divilend income by withholding 10 percent of that income during the year, rather than rely on taxpayers to report their earnings on their income tax returns.

"Requiring the 1099 forms should help the IRS cross check these forms with the amount of interest and dividend income declared, without the expensive paperwork nightmare of withholding," Cochran said.

The 1982 Tax Act was an integral part The bill co-sponsored by Cochran would eliminate the withholding provision and simply require taxpayers to attach Internal Revenue Service 1099 interest and dividend forms to their in-

Hancock General Hospital payment policies outlined

By EDGAR PEREZ

Hancock General Hospital Administrator Phil Langston this week reported the hospital's emergency room and outpatient payment procedures are based on board of trustees policies adopted in 1981.

"There haven't been any changes in those policies since that time," on pointed out.

"All persons entering Hancock General Hospital on an outpatient basis or through the emergency room are requested to make advance payment by cash, check or credit card," according Langston.

"There seems to be some confusion lately over the policy that the board of trustees set forth in 1981," said Langston, "and we would like to reiterate the conditions of this policy."

"Let me emphasize that no one will be denied treatment as a result of an accident or true medical emergency because of the inability to pay,"

"In addition, financial arrangements can always be made at Hancock General," he noted.

"Those persons who come to the hospital on an outpatient basis or through the emergency room are re-quired to pay according to the policy, and as a courtesy, the business office will file the patient's insurance for reimbursement to them," Langston

"The only exception to this is for Medicare and Medicaid nationts, who must present their card with the explanation of benefits showing.
"Those who are admitted to the hospital for treatment will also have ir insurance filed, if it is assigned to the hospital, pending verification of coverage and benefits," he added.

"Anyone who has a question concern-ing the cash policy should contact the business office at the hospital," Langston said.

SOME COOLING IDEAS

There's nothing more worth there's nothing more worthless aboard a fishing boat than an ice chest dull of water. Exposed all day to the sun, few coolers can shed heat enough to retain ice. As a result the fish you keep go home without proper refrigeration. If they don't spoil, the taste is affected.

Having 'experienced this:
problem, Mercury Outboards' fishing experts have some tips that will assure having ice at sundown. Their first suggestion is to always use block ice, With less surface exposed to air than occurs with cube or chipped ice, a 25-pound block will last nearly four times as long.
Pre-cool the chest prior to your fishing trip. The day before, dump all the ice cubes from home refrigerator trays into the chest and add a gallon of water. Next morning, add an ice block and lelave the water in the chest. It'll help insulate the block and will be a quick cooler for canned drinks.

If there's no blace aboard.

If there's no place aboard your boat where the chest can be stored out of the sun, think about making a simple styrofoam cover out of one-inch insulating board. A 4x8-foot sheet costs less than five dollars. Join costs less than five dollars. Join the sides and top with the threeinch wide duct tape and place-the cover over the chest. You can even hinge the top with tape for easy access. The white surface will reflect the sun's rays, and the styrofoam insulates the chest from hot air. At the very least, cover the chest with a tarp or old blanket when it must be in direct sunlight.

or old blanket when it must be in direct sunlight.

It's tough to beat the usefulness of a good knife as a fisherman's tool. Used to cut line, prepare bait and rough-dress fish, among other things; a knife is an important item in every angler's tackle box, The problem is that too often we have the wrong kind of knife.

Knives come in hundreds of styles. Choosing from among them for one that fits a fisherman's needs is, difficult unless, you know what features are desirable. According to: Mercuty Outboards' fishing experts there is no such thing as the perfect fisherman's knife. But you can reach a reasonable com-fect fisherman's knife. But you can reach a reasonable compromise. Here are their suggestions for features to seek.

Folding knife or sheath knife? Each has advantages, but wet, slick fingers can hold a sheath knife best. Opening a folding knife with soft fingernails can cause them to break, and it's impossible to do if you're holding a fish with one hand to keep it from flopping around.

Hunting knives, those with thick blades, guards and blood-drains, are virtually useless in a fishing boat. They are difficult to use, impossible to wear on a belt while seated, and have fea-tures a fisherman doesn't need.

The best overall style of fish-ing knife is one with a short (4 to 6-inch) blade made of stainless steel. Blade shape should be narrow, slim, yet rigid. This omits, properly, thin-bladed fil-leting knives as general fishing tools; they're suitable only for one purpose.

NATURAL GAS

PRICE DECONTROL Mississippians have crucial stake in the move afoot urging Congress to decontrol natural gas.

The issue affects farmers who use diesel fuel to power their field equipment and natural gas to manufacture their fertilizers. It affects more than 350,000 Mississippi residences, over 37,000 com-mercial establishments, 1,200 industrial plants, many schools and hospitals, and

Natural gas now provides 26 percent of Mississippi's statewide energy needs while 79 percent of this consumption goes to the commercialindustrial sector, according to the Mississippi Petroleum

As a natural gas consumer, Mississippi ranks 21st among the states. As a producer it ranked 9th in 1981 with a production of 211 billion cubic

The issue we face is simply this. Natural gas prices in the U.S. have been regulated since 1938 if the gas crossed state lines. In 1954 the Supreme Court extended controls to wellheads for that used in interstate commerce. As happened federal regulators set rates so low that gas producers were discouraged from looking for more. Soon we experienced shortages with brownouts occurring, and some gas-fueled industries shutting down. In 1978 Congress passed the Natural Gas Policy Act to decontrol the price of natural gas and do it gradually to prolèaps in prices.

Yet, out of it all the petroleum industry is joined by many others to beat the drums for total price decontrol at the earliest opportunity. And while such a position night seem on the surface to favor prices shooting for the moon, the industry believes otherwise. Here's their case.

David Johnson of the Mississippi Petroleum Council pointed out recently that a chilled gradual phase-out of natural Combi gas price controls should help Mississippi continue its economic development by medium heat and stir con-stimulating new jobs, boosting stantly until the mixture severance and sales taxes, and an improvement in sup-

Addressing the situation to agriculture, Johnson sees decontrol of natural gas ultimately resulting in lower diesel and gasoline prices. He points out that increased supies of natural gas and reduced oil imports mean lower costs than otherwise for oil products used on farms.

Meanwhile the U.S. Department of Energy has estimated that a reduction of oil imports by one million barrels a day uld reduce oil prices by about two to three cents a

With these anticipated sav ings, farmers' total fuel bills could decrease under gas decontrol because farmers typically spend more for oil oducts than for gas, the Council spokesman main-natural gas decontrol could in- . crease the cost of producing ammonia by $37 to $105 per ton by 1985. However he estimates that even if such price rise, should occur the overall impact on the cost of producing food would be less than half of one percent.

Scouting anniversary observed this month

The New Orleans Area Council this month is observ ing the 73rd anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. Feb. 6—12 has been designated Scouting Anniver-sary Week with an Estimated 18,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Explorers expected to participate in various activities in the area.

On Scouting Anniversary Day, Feb. 8, youth members of the movement will be encouraged to wear their uniforms as a demonstration of their membership in the largest youth organization in the free world.

The day also will give them an opportunity to rededicate themselves to objectives outlined in the Cub Scout Promise, Boy Scout Oath, and Explorer Code. Scouts participated in religious observances at their own place of worship on Feb. 6, Scout Sunday, and will also participate on Feb. 12, Scout Sabbath.

More than 45 percent of all packs, troops, and posts are chartered to religious groups. Approximately 21 percent chartered to educational institutions and 32 percent to other community-based organizations.

Council executive Frank E. Lawrence Jr. said scouting principles strongly coincide

Regional Science Fair schedules announced

Mississippi Science and Engineering Fair will be chosen from six regional fairs to be held in March, said Lawrence Bellipanni, state science fair coordinator.

The state-wide Fair will be held April 15 and 16 at Jackson State University. The six regions are divided into North, East Central, Southeast, South, Central and Delta. Dates and locations of the Region I. University of Southern Mississippi, March 23; Region II, Hinds Junior College, March 30-31; Region III, Delta State University, March 24-25; Region IV, Nor-theast Mississippi Junior Col-lege, March 25-26; Region V, Mississippi State University March 25-26; Region VI, University of Southern Mississippi, March 25-26.

USM will host two regions because of the large number of participants from the South Mississippi area, said regional fair registration is March 11 in all regions. Elementary students in ly required to stay the first day, March 25, at the Region VI Fair, Bellipanni said.

There will be six categories for entries coming from elementary grades. Junior high and high school students can choose from 11 categories

REAL VIEWS ON

REGULATIONS QUESTION: I own some land that I would like to develop. I was told that all subdivision regulations would ave to be met. In short, what are they? M. M. Meridian Subdivision regulations apply to situations in which a developer wishes to take one tract of land and break if into smaller tracts of land for housing lots or other types of development. In order to record a subdivision plat, many local governments require that certain develop-ment standards be met.

These standards relate to the size of lots, width of the streets, curbing, lighting, drainage and other iments. If a developer wishes to turn the streets and public areas over to the local government for it to maintain, minimum construction quality standards must be met before the local government will accept responsibility.

Title to roads and other land is transferred through a process called dedication. Dedication involves a donation by the property owner and an acceptance by the govern-

RISK VERSUS

QUESTION: I recently read vest in real estate because it is selling at a low price. If it is such a good investment, why is the price so low? A. D. Clin-

You may have noticed that quite often certain investinents such as a bank acothers such as real estate often pay 25 percent or more. For example, if both Invest ment A and Investment B are expected to pay $100 each year in dividends, why are the two investments not selling for the same price? The answer is that investors pay a premium for certainty.

If they are uncertain that Investment A will pay the promised $100 dividend but are more sure that Investment B will, Investment B will sell for a higher price.

The lack of certainty on the part of the investor is based on perception of risk in the investment. The riskier the investment, the less the investor is willing to pay for it. Risk has two sides, the upside, which is the possibility of gain, and the downside, which is the possibility of loss. Generally, more attention is paid to the downside, i.e., loss of original investment or failure by the investor to realize the promised gain. Gamblers and speculators tend to emphasize the upside risk, i.e., the chances of gaining greater profits than expected.

The general investment equation for valuing return from an investment is exsed as value equals income divided by rate of return. Thus, the greater the risk perceived the higher the rate and thus the lower the for such a "low price" it may be that as a result of uncertainty an investor requires a higher return and thus places a lower value on the invest-he you can follow this suggestion from the Horvath family ... and help to heat your home with newspapers.

Sally Horvath of Michigan tells us her family has discovered how to roll newspapers for use in their woodstove. Luckily, her husband, who is a social studies teacher, uses a nearby metropolitan daily in his classes, so he collects the papers after class and the family rolls them up. Sally says that finding inexpensive supplies of used newspapers to buy is quite easy, too. You can, for instance, contact Girl or Boy Scout troops, 4-H. clubs, churches, or high school athletic offices to see whether they're collecting them. ... put a sign in your front yard saying that you'll buy old newsprint... or persuade a dozen or so friends to save their daily papers for you, which you'll gather on a regular basis. Such efforts, spread out over a few months, will likely give you all the papers you need for a winter's auxiliary heating.

When you've collected a quantity of papers, you're ready to roll, First, get a big spool of No. 24 wire. Then cut a 2' length of the metal strand and set it on a table or other flat surface. Over the wire, place about a 20-page section of newspaper that's been unfolded but not opened. Next, lay a 3' stack of still-folded sheets on the half of the 20-page section that's closest to you. Now, begin rolling the pile as tight as you can. The unfolded section on the bottom will serve as a sheath to keep the log tightly, bound ... so you can bring the wire around and twist it at the top. Once you get the knack of this log-making operation, Sally says, you'll be able to roll a round in practically no time at all!

knack of this log-making operation; Sally says, you'll be able to roll a round in practically no time at all!

In the course of their experimentation with burning newspapers, the Horvaths made a discovery: High-quality glossy magazine paper is covered with a thin coating of clay during the manufacturing process. This causes the pages to smolder and leave a lot of black, leafy residue. Worse yet, the shiny sheets contain lead. The smoke from such a fire will be filled with that toxic heavy metal ... and so will the ashes. So avoid humber magazines or color newspaper supplements.

such a fire will be filled with that toxic heavy metal ... and so will the ashes. So avoid burning magazines or color newspaper supplements.

To start a blaze with paper logs, fully open the draft and damper on your stove (and leave them open until you have strong flames going). Then lay two logs side by side—with a slight space in between—and rest a third log on top of the first two. Next, scatter about 40 pages of crumpled paper around and over the three logs (the wadded sheets, of course, act as kindling to start the fire). The air picket formed below the top log permits good air circulation, which will help your newspaper logs to burn fairly quickly. That's important, too, because the slower the paper rounds burn, the more residue will be left behind. You may also want to spear your rounds with a poker as they burn down, and shake them hard so the ashes on the outer part of each log can't anuff the inner fire. (The wire you used to wrap up the logs can be taken out with the lashes.)

with the January 24 edition. "I think the staff can produce a first class publication that will rate high at the spring competition of the Mississippi Junior College PRC's student newspaper has been the most dominant force in junior college publications during the entire decade of the seventies and is currently rated as the number one publication from last year.

The Dixie Drawl will once again be aiming at capturing the prestigious title of Best Overall Newspaper against all other junior colleges in the state The weekly Dixie Drawl will offer readers an expanded coverage of news affecting students, staff and teachers of the college.

The Dixie Drawl has a history of being first in journalistic accomplishments for junior college publications. In 1973, Pearl River published the first full size newspaper, abandoning the tabloid publications most readily used by junior colleges across the state. During 1974, The Dixie Drawl released the first color pictures to ever appear in a Mississippi junior college newspaper. "We are hoping through good journalism and proper training in layout The Dixie Drawl can continue to produce the finest junior college publication in the state, and one of the best in the country," commented Stanford.

In the past ten years The Dixie Drawl has collected state awards, has had state officers to serve on the Junior College Press Association staff, and was first overall in 1974, 1975, 1976, 1978, 1980, 1981, 1982 and second in 1977

MSU sponsoring fourth annual essay contest

High School and college students from across the state will again be searching through archives as the fourth annual essay contest gets under way at Mississippi State University.

Sponsored by the John C. Stennis Institute of Government and the Stennis Collection of Mitchell Memorial Library at MSU, the contest is held to encourage the writing of serious essays using papers and documents donated by Sen. Stennis to the university.

This year's topic for the high competition is "The Dismissal of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur in 1951." The college and university topic is "Senator John C. Stennis' Changing Views on the Vietnam War."

The winner of the high school competition will receive $100 and a plaque, while the collegiate winner will receive $200 and a plaque. The Stennis Institute director must be notified of high school entrants by Feb. 15.

Collection and a suggested bibliography of published sources, most of which should be available locally.

Each high school will submit its best entry to the competition.

As an aid to college and university participatnts, a reference special ` bibliography on accessible materials in the Stennis Collection, as well as those located elsewhere in the MSU library, is available for students' use in the library's Special Collections Department.

High school entries should be postmarked no later than March 31 and college entries must be received by May 15. The winners in the high school competition will be announced April 30, while college winners will be notified prior to the formal award presentation in the fall honoring winners in both categories.

For more information, write in care of the Stennis Institute. Those schools with entrants of Government, Drawer LV, will receive a packet of source Mississippi State, Miss. 39762, will receive a packet of source materials from the Stennis or phone 601-325-3328.

Southern plans computer conferences

The University of Southern Mississippi is offering three Saturday conferences on using computers in the classroom in February and March. conferences are campus on Feb. 26 and March 28 in the Education and Psychology Building rooms 109 and 111. On March 5 rooms 204—207 in Lloyd Hall at USM-Gulf Park in Long Beach will be the site of one conference.

"There is a real need for teachers to know about computers and to understand the implications of this powerful technology for use in today's classrooms," said Dr. Thomas Pickering chairman of the Department of Curriculum and Indirudion.

Pickering, along with Dr. Mark Richmond, a professor in the department, will lead the workshops which will provide practical information to demonstrate computer applications in education to teachers and administrators Participants will gain firsthand experience in working with computer programs for education as they learn a basic vocabulary, components plications and run programs. The conferences begin at 8:45 a.m. and conclude at 3:30 p.m. For additional information contact Conferences and Workshops at Southern Station Box 5056, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39401 or call 256-4189.

Bay student among honorees at The River

Thirty-eight students from Pearl River College have been selected as being among the country's most outstanding campus leaders and they will be listed in the 1983 edition of 'Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges."

Campus nominating coms and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievements, service to the community, leadership in ex-tracurricular activities and individual potential.

The Pearl River students join an elite group of students selected from 700 institutions of higher learning from all 50 states, the District of Columiba and Puerto Rico.

Pearl River students have been honored in the annual directory since it was first published in 1966

Only second year students (27 semester hours or 633 clock hours) are eligible for nomination. These nominations are then submitted to the PRC Dean of Student Affairs.

The 1983 academic selections include Rodney Wade Ladner of Bay St. Louis.

A recent broadcast spon-sored by the Columbia-Pres-byterian Medical Center and The Prudential Insurance Company volunteered specific Company volunteered specific steps parents can take to prevent their children from inhaling foreign objects.

Dr. Russell Asnes, a pediatrician at the Columbia Mediatrician at the Columbia M cal School, says youngsters with strong "oral tendencies" may swallow objects like buttons, tacks or coins which parents leave around the house. Plastic toys which can be disassembled also present special dangers since can be disassembled also present special dangers, since children may swallow or choke on the smaller parts.

Dr. Asnes says parents minimize risk from small objects by making the home as safe as possible. "A major part of being a parent involves being or constant watch for ingestions, not only of small ingestions, not only of small objects and toys, but also of household, items such as cleaning fluids and medications," says Dr. Asnes.

Parents should also be aware that ordinary foods, particularly peanuts, can be sucked into the windpipe or lungs by young children.

Dr. Asnes says the Heimlich Maneuver is the most, effect.

Dr. Asnes says the Heimich Maneuver is the most effec-tive procedure to dislodge a foreign object from the windpipe. "In the Heimlich Maneuver, one places his hands around the child, hands around the child, forming a fist beneath the torming a list beneath the breastbone, and presses quickly and firmly in an upward action to remove the object," explains Dr. Asnes.
Dr. Asnes says x-rays are often necessary to confirm whether an object has been included into the lings or
